

Perceived Health Status、Social Activities and Psychological Activities of the Elderly in Lin-lo Hsiang, Ping-tung County.

Hui-Man Huang<sup>1</sup>, Chen-ying Su<sup>2</sup>

Department of Nursing

Ta-jen Institute of Technology

ABSTRACT

The purpose of this study was to investigate the social activities, psychological activities and perceived health status related to elderly cross-sectional survey and took samples from elderly in Lin-Lo Hsiang, Ping-Tung county. A sample of 71 elderly was drawn by Quota sampling out of 1205 elderly for this study. The main results of this study were as follows:

1. The elderly being interviewed were 45.1% male and 54.9% female with an average age of 74.21. They were married(84.5% ). Most of elderly were stayed with their son and daughter-in-law (66.2%).
2. On average, every elderly person suffered from 4.4 chronic diseases. Oral disease was the number one prevalent disease.
3. Most of elderly were satisfied of social support and social activities.
4. The psychological activities of elderly were not bad .

Key words: elderly, perceived health status, social activities , ychological activities status .